A revolutionary way to combine learning with adventure

2016 Homeschool Days / Colonial Williamsburg February 27-March 6, 2016 and September 10-25, 2016

There's a movement to victory in the Revolutionary City...townspeople dreaming of freedom amidst the uncertainty of a future at war. We invite you to walk beside our colonists and experience daily life in our tradeshops, homes, and community buildings. Take part in America's beginnings in ways that will spark your family's imagination. From the basics—a reading of the Declaration of Independence daily—to the unexpected—African American storytelling—in over 300 acres of interactive activities, we'll keep them busy, thinking and dreaming!

This fall, homeschoolers and their families can enjoy hands-on activities and revolutionary experiences designed to make colonial emotions and dramas come alive in a way that's educational and interactive. Plus, visits can be tailored to include on-site lodging, dining, 18th-century tavern meals, and entertainment. Inspire the next generation of dreamers with a Colonial Williamsburg experience!
